Bedstuyale represents a movement birthed by artists scattered across the globe, which crystalized in Bedstuy, Brooklyn. Leveraging the talents of creative thought leaders from every industry I have worked in over the course of my career to date. As an album, the music merely represents the soundtrack to the lives we are collectively leading as members of our worldwide arts community.

Carolina Iwanow and I envisioned a jewelry line, which has the power to articulate the messages contained on Bedstuyale. Carolina, who helped me concept the vision behind Bedstuyale, has hand crafted pieces, which correlate with each song on the album. Each and every artist / collaborator on the album shares the same viewpoints on our need to concentrate on saving marine life, water conservation, curtailing GMOs, reducing our dependence on fossil fuels, and eliminating the thought that violence and war are suitable first responses to circumstances which can be resolved by peaceful means.

BPM Jewelry will donate a portion of all profits from the Bedstuyale line to various charitable organizations that are positioned to help effect change in the areas listed above. On behalf of myself and all of the collaborators who appear on the album, thank you for lending us your ears, your minds, and ultimately:
Your hearts.

Love,
Nathan Nabin Laskar aka Brooklyn Shanti
